His niece, Miss Mary McKenzie, left at once for Mt. Sterling, and will bring the remains to this city for interment.

Funeral arrangements in charge of Mader and Ebert, are not completed.

EIGHT FAMOUS AIRMEN NEAR FOR FIRST TIME

LAKE ST. AGNES, April 25 — Eight of the world's famous airmen are within a few miles of one another for the first time in the history of aviation—seven of them sending up prayers for the recovery of one of their number.

While Floyd Bennett wages a flight against death of pneumonia in Quebec, the others grimly wait for the crisis to pass. Near the stricken flier are Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Commander Richard E. Byrd. At Lake St. Agnes is Clarence Chamberlin. On Greenly Island are Bern. Balchen, Captain Hermann Koehl, Captain James C. Fitzmaurice and Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld.

All except Bennett have made the aerial journey over the Atlantic. Bennett and Byrd flew over the North Pole.

FLOYD BENNETT DIES IN QUEBEC HOSPITAL

Famous Airman Succumbs To Double Pneumonia When Serum is Found Unsuitable.

QUEBEC, Que., April 25.—Floyd Bennett, internationally famous aviator and conquerer of the North Pole, died at 10:53 Wednesday morning in the Jeffrey Hale hospital of pneumonia which he had contracted in the line of duty.

Bennett was 38 years old. He was born at Lake George, N. Y., on October 25, 1890, and his present home was in Brooklyn, N. Y.

He was one of the most courageous aviators whose name has been written indelibly in the annals of aviation progress. His greatest achievement was when, as co-pilot for Commander Richard E. Byrd, in 1926, he flew to the North Pole—the first time this epic feat had been accomplished.

Bennett's death was hastened by his fielity to duty. He was ill when he left Detroit several days ago in the Ford rescue plane which was bringing replacements for the trans-Atlantic Bremen which was forced down on Greenely Island. He was forced to give up the flight when half way and was taken to the hospital in Quebec.

Byrd Heartbroken

Drama and pathos surrounded last minute efforts to save Bennett's life. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, a comrade of the air, learning that a special serum was needed for the treatment of Bennett, sped in an airplane from Curtiss Field, N Y., Tuesday afternoon with the serum, arriving in a raging snow storm at 6:30 Tuesday evening. Lindbergh flew as he never flew before, making the distance in record time. The serum, however, was not the kind necessary and his dramatic trip proved in vain.

Col. Lindbergh was heartbroken when he heard that Bennett had passed away.

So was Commander Richard E. Byrd, for years a bosom friend of Bennett's. He had already named Bennett as second in command of their expeition this fall to the South Pole.

"I am too grieved for words," said Byrd, tears in his eyes.

While Lindbergh slept serene in the belief that he had succeeded in helping save the life of Bennett, the doctors issued a statement at 8 a. m. that the flier's condition was "desperate." It read:

Bennett's Wife Ill

"There are four kinds of pneumonia known to medical science. Bennett is suffering from the third class. The serum brought from New York does not cover this type of the disease. His condition is desperate."

The third type is the most active and virulent kind of lobar pneumonia, the physicians said.

When Lindbergh landed at Batlefield Park here he went at once to the hospital but Bennett's condition was so critical that he was not allowed in the room of the sick airman. Lindbergh then visited Bennett's wife who is lying ill wit ha severe case of tonsilitis in the room next to her husband's.

To reporters, Lindbergh was reticent about the details of his flight, which is said to have been the fastest on record between New York and Quebec.

Commander Byrd visited Bennett yesterday. He was only allowed to see his chief aide for more tha na few minutes. Bennett's face lighted up when he saw Byrd and he asked how the plans for the Ant-Arctic expedition were progressing.

Byrd told him everything was in readiness for the start of the project and urged him to worry about nothing and get well.

TWO ESCAPE UNHURT WHEN TRUCK SKIDS

Circleville Machine Turns Over Into Ditch South of City.

William Fisher and William Teegardin of Circleville miraculously escaped injury late Monday when their Reo truck skidded on the pike at the intersection of the Chillicothe and Maysville-Zanesville pike and overturned in a ditch.

The truck turned completely over and came to a rest upside down. Fisher and Teegardin were compelled to crawl through the windows and were none the worse for their harrowing experience.

Fisher, who owns the truck, had been hired by Teegardin to drive to Chillicothe and bring the furniture of Mrs. Seymour Blacker back to Circleville to the home of her brother, T. J. Morris.

The truck was only slightly damaged and was able to proceed to Circleville under its own power.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO HAVE PART IN CLEAN-UP WEEK

1000 Buttons and Report Sheets to Be Distributed to Grades.

Circleville school children will take an active part in Clean-Up and Paint-Up week which gets under way throughout the nation next Monday, April 30.

The board of education has given its hearty co-operation to the Chamber of Commerce efforts to make Circleville spic and span and keep it that way. One thousand Clean-up buttons and report sheets have been turned over to E. L. Daley, supervisor of grade schools, and these will be distributed to all grade children.

After Clean-Up week committees will be appointed to inspect some of the places that have been cleaned. In this way children in the higher grades will be given an active part in the campaign and training in the right direction for better citibens n the future.

BARON WRANGEL DEAD

THRAILKILL IMPROVES

Condition of M. E. Thrailkill, attorney, who has been ill at his home in Columbus, since Sunday, showed improvement Tuesday, according to relatives. Overwork is believed to have caused his illness.

BARTHOLOMEW ACQUITTED

JUDGE ORDERS JURY TO FREE AGED BANKER

Declares Prosecution Had No Case Against New Holland Man.

M. S. Bartholomew, aged vice president of the First National bank of New Holland, was exonerated of the forgery charge brought by Miss Emma and Miss Artie Porter in common pleas court Wednesday morning.

The Porter sisters had charged that a notation on a note for 53,500 signed by their brother W. C. Porter, and held by Mr. Bartholomew had been raised from 6 to 7 per cent. Both sisters were on the stand Tuesday as was Wm. G. Pengelly, a handwriting expert. Pengelly said it was his opinion that the notation changing the rate of interest had been written with different ink and at a later date than the text and the signature to the document.

The trial ended suddenly. The state had rested its case, shortly after Wednesday's session opened, when Judge Dresbach, one of Mr. Bartholomew's attorneys, moved that the court instruct the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

Judge Price of New Lexington, who has been conducting the trial, sustained the motion and then addressed the jury. He said:

"The Porter sisters have paid 7 per cent interest on this note for five years and never complained to the defendant until the civil case for settlement of the note was brought up. Other persons would have complained at once. But they waited five years before they said anything about it. Thus the change of the interest was ratified, in effect.

"The state has failed to prove its case. If my decision is wrong it will be my own fault. There are two higher courts to correct me if I am wrong."

The jury filed out and returned almost instantly. John Wardell was foreman of the jury.

Mr. Bartholomew was deeply moved by the verdict. He shook hands with Judge Price, the jurors and his attorneys. Besides Judge Dresbach, other attorneys defending him were Irvin F. Snyder and Charles H. May.

The Herald was in error Tuesday when it said that the note involved in the trial was held by the First National bank of New Holland. The bank is not in any way connected with the matter. The note has been held personally by Mr. Bartholomew.

FEAR MEASLES EPIDEMIC

COLUMBUS, April 25.—Warnings are being issued by the state health department here for the mothers to be on guard against the breaking out of measles on their children, following a report received by the department that during the month of March 4,600 cases of the disease were discovered in the state.

AMERICAN SLAIN IN CHINESE WAR

Presbyterian Missionary Shot Through Heart in Shantung Area.

PEKING, April 25 — (INS)—The Rev. Dr. Seymour, an American, a member of the Presbyterian Mission in China for the past 50 years, was shot and killed by Chinese troops at Tsinning, according to word received here today from American refugees stranded in the Shantung war area.

United States legation officials were informed that the missionary was shot through the heart on April 16 while Tsinning was being occupied by Gen. Feng Yuh Siang's army. The town had originally been held by northern troops.

BOULEVARD LIGHT PETITIONS READY

Petitions are ready to be circulated in behalf of the proposed boulevard lighting system.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the plan, will be held shortly to begin a canvass for the support of property owners.

FRANK LOCKHART KILLED TRYING FOR NEW RECORD

Racing Car Somersaults on Daytona Speedway—Wife Sees Tragedy.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 25—Frank Lockhart, one of the world's most famous racing drivers, was fatally injured here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning when his car somersaulted as he was making an attempt to break the world's speed record. He died a few minutes after the accident.

A photographer and about 15 persons, standing on the course, barely escaped when the flying car hurtled toward them. The Stutz came within two feet of the machine in which Mrs. Lockhart was sitting before it turned over and stopped. Lockhart was driving north.

According to automobile experts, because of the lightness of the front part of the Stutz, some apprehension has been felt for Lockhart's safety in making speed tests. It is believed the powerful rush of wind shoved up the front part of the car, causing it to somersault.

Lockhart's racer was speeding down the beach at 200 miles an hour when it suddenly swerved and turned a somersault. Lockhart was picked up, limp and bleeding, and rushed to a hospital.

The present world's record, which was set last Sunday by Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, broke the mark made by Major Malcolm Campbell, of England.

Following Keech's successful assault on the record, Lockhart was more than ever determined to set a new mark. Keech announced that provided Lockhart did break his record, he would try again in the big white triplex.

The body of Lockhart will probably be sent to Indianapolis for burial. Mrs. Lockhart is suffering from the shock of seeing her husband killed before her eyes.

BROWN, FACING LIFE SENTENCE, DIES IN PRISON

Negro Convicted of Hill Murder Passed Away in Ohio Penitentiary.

There will be no second trial of Walter Brown, alias James Flint, the negro who was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary from Pickaway-co several weeks ago for the murder of John Henry Hill.

Brown died late Tuesday at the penitentiary. Death was due to cancer and tuberculosis.

Following his conviction of second degree murder, Brown was taken to the penitentiary and Willie Jones and Earl (Whiskey) Mallett, two material witnesses, were returned to the county jail to be held for the second trial. Jones and Mallett have been in jail at the county's expense for months.

They were released by Sheriff Davis Wednesday.

DEATH TAKES MRS. GOELLER

Well-known Circleville Woman Dies After Six Months' Illness.

Mrs. Ida L. Goeller, 56, wife of Charles F. Goeller, well-known broom manufacturer, passed away at her home at 206 S. Pickaway-st at 9:35 a. m. Wednesday, after six months' illness of cancer.

She was born in Lancaster, O., and was the daughter of D. L. and Eliza (Cunningham) Coffman. On October 14, 1901, she married Charles F. Goeller, who with two foster children, Mrs. Edward See of Columbus, and Harry L. Dawson of Los Angeles, survives.

She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. V. L. Stebelton of Columbus, and Mrs. H. L. Smith of Detroit, Mich., and 1 brother, H. E. Coffman, of Columbus.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of Mader and Ebert, will be announced Thursday.

HENRY FOLSOM IN REALTY DEAL

Henry P. Folsom, of Circleville, and his son, Seward G. Folsom, of Lima, are members of a syndicate which has purchased the old Allen-co fair grounds at Lima preparatory to plotting it for real estate development.

The price was approximately $40,000.

Henry Folsom went to Lima Wednesday to assist in the organization.

ANTI-HOOVER SLATE WINNER IN PICKAWAY

Extremely Light Vote Shows Huge Margin for Willis Forces Here.

Willis followers—those opposed to Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for president—rolled up a large majority in Pickaway-co in Tuesday's primaries.

Totals from 35 out of the county's 38 precincts show a presidential preference as follows:

Willis, 344; Hoover, 277; Dawes 10; Ross, 4; Lowden, 3.

The Pickaway-co vote was extremely light. Hardly one-third of the normal vote was cast. There was no Democratic contest.

Willis candidates for delegates-at-large and 11th district delegates to the national convention were favored almost two to one over the Hoover slate in this county. The vote for delegates-at-large follows:

A. Lee Beatty (Willis) 465.
Frank A. Brown (Hoover) 251.
Theodore E. Burton (Hoover) 252.
Mrs. Hugh Clark (Hoover) 231.
E. W. B. Curry (Hoover) 222.
E. W. Edwards (Willis) 467.
W. W. Farnsworth (Hoover) 218.
Simeon D. Fess (Willis) 514.
Wilma Sinclair LeVan (Willis) 490.
Edward Orton, Jr., (Hoover) 253.
Robert A. Taft (Hoover) 263.
Carmi A. Thompson (Willis) 504.
Edward Vollrath (Willis) 460.

GOV. SMITH SHOWS WELL IN PRIMARIES

Incomplete Returns Indicate Hoover Carries 12 of 21 Districts and "Big Seven."

COLUMBUS, O., April 25 — With an assured majority of the delegation to the Kansas City convention, with the election of all his candidates for the "big seven" and the popular indorsement of the Republican voters of the state Herbert C. Hoover continued piling up a lead in the preferential vote as the returns continued to straggle in today from the Tuesday primary.

Although the total vote may be the lightest of the last two presidential primaries when the final returns are made, Hoover showed remarkable strength in the heavily populated counties and especially in Cuyahoga where he was given a remarkable vote for a primary election.

Along with the Hoover victory in the state, the Democrats indicated their desire to show the country that they still have a tremendous liking for Gov. Al Smith. Although no Democratic candidates were entered in the preferential primary, the names of the aspirants were written in by many of the voters and Smith showed a total of 31,676 in the 5799 precincts. Gov. Donahey gathered 4424 and Atlee Pomerene 7780.

Incomplete returns from the congressional district at this time indicated that Hoover will have at least 31 delegates to the Kansas City convention. He has carried 12 of the districts which with the delegation at large will give him that number. The Anti-Hoover forces have carried nine district with a total of 18 delegates, with one district, the tenth, still in doubt.

Incomplete returns in the Republican preferential show the following results:

Hoover 171,607, Willis 67,817, Olin Ross 6475, Coolidge 139, Lowden 1453, Curtis 8, and Dawes 1987. Of the Dawes vote 787 camefrom Washington county, his birthplace.

In the Democratic preference 5799 precincts reported with the following result: Donahey 4424, Smith 31,676, Pomerene 7780, McAdoo 33, Reed 368, Walsh 35, White 80, Cox 2, Newton D.

Primaries At a Glance

By UNITED PRESS

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, apparently won the majority of delegates in the various primaries and state conventions held here yesterday.

The bitter Ohio Republican race between followers of the commerce secretary and followers of the late Frank B. Willis, ended with Hoover slightly in control of the delegation although the delegation will be divided.

Surprisingly enough Governor Smith won the Ohio endorsement although he had made no efforts in Ohio. He won by about 5 to 1 over Former Senator Atlee Pomerene and Governor Vic Donahey.

Results of the various primaries and conventions today showed:

Ohio—Republicans, Hoover won majority control. Democrat, Smith.

Nevada:— Republicans in convention voted on an uninstructed delegation.

Kansas — Democrats in convention voted to support Rep. W. A. Ayres, a native son candidate.

Oklahoma—Republicans in convention voted to support Frank O. Lowden as first choice and Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas as second choice.

Pennsylvania — Primary election resulted in split Republican delegation and 98 of Democratic delegates for Smith.

Massachusetts — Voters at primary overwhelmingly in favor of Herbert Hoover for Republicans and Governor Smith for Democrats.

SCOTHORN DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

Apoplexy Fatal to Ashville Man—Funeral Will Be Held Thursday.

Chamber Endorses C. M. T. C. Following Plea By Lynch

Following a stirring address by Joseph M. Lynch, the Circleville Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution at its regular meeting Monday night endorsing the Citizens Military Training Camps, and urging young men of Pickaway-co to attend.

The endorsement will go out in the form of a letter to United States senators and congressmen urging their support to an amendment to the army appropriations bill providing for training for at least 40,000 men, the same number as provided for last year.

Although Pickaway-co may send 15 young men to these camps, only three went last year, according to Mr. Lynch, who is Pickaway-co chairman of the C. M. T. C.

Mr. Lynch's address follows in part:

"National defense is one of the most important national questions of the day, one deserving of much thought and consideration not only by the heads of our government but also by the civic, political and religious bodies of every community in this nation. A nation is only as strong as the defense it can present against outside attacks, and for this reason it is a subject which warrants the attention of this organization.

"When we speak of national defense we refer to our state of preparedness to combat militaristic attacks fro outside the confines of our government. Or in plain words: 'Just how well are we equipped for war?'

"There is no such thing as militarism in this country, never has been, never will be. Every intelligent American who is honest with himself knows this to be a fact. There is in America no military caste thinking of war and re-

BARTHOLOMEW ACQUITTED

JUDGE ORDERS JURY TO FREE AGED BANKER

Declares Prosecution Had No Case Against New Holland Man.

M. S. Bartholomew, aged vice president of the First National bank of New Holland, was exonerated of the forgery charge brought by Miss Emma and Miss Artie Porter in common pleas court Wednesday morning.

The Porter sisters had charged that a notation on a note for $3,500 signed by their brother, W. C. Porter, and held by Mr. Bartholomew had been raised from 6 to 7 per cent. Both sisters were on the stand Tuesday as was Wm. G. Pengelly, a handwriting expert. Pengelly said it was his opinion that the notation changing the rate of interest had been written with different ink and at a later date than the text and the signature to the document.

The trial ended suddenly. The state had rested its case, shortly after Wednesday's session opened, when Judge Dresbach, one of Mr. Bartholomew's attorneys, moved that the court instruct the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

Judge Price of New Lexington, who has been conducting the trial, sustained the motion and then addressed the jury. He said:

"The Porter sisters have paid 7 per cent interest on this note for five years and never complained to the defendant until the civil case for settlement of the note was brought up. Other persons would have complained at once. But they waited five years before they said anything about it. Thus the change of the interest was ratified, in effect.

"The state has failed to prove its case. If my decision is wrong it will be my own fault. There are two higher courts to correct me if I am wrong."

The jury filed out and returned almost instantly. John Wardell was foreman of the jury.

Mr. Bartholomew was deeply moved by the verdict. He shook hands with Judge Price, the jurors and his attorneys. Besides Judge Dresbach, other attorneys defending him were Irvin F. Snyder and Charles H. May.

The Herald was in error Tuesday when it said that the note involved in the trial was held by the First National bank of New Holland. The bank is not in any way connected with the matter. The note has been held personally by Mr. Barthlomew.

FRANK LOCKHART KILLED TRYING FOR NEW RECORD

Racing Car Somersaults on Daytona Speedway—Wife Sees Tragedy.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 25—Frank Lockhart, one of the world's most famous racing drivers, was fatally injured here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning when his car somersaulted as he was making an attempt to break the world's speed record. He died a few minutes after the accident.

A photographer and about 15 persons, standing on the course, barely escaped when the flying car hurtled toward them. The Stutz came within two feet of the machine in which Mrs. Lockhart was sitting before it turned over and stopped. Lockhart was driving north.

According to automobile experts, because of the lightness of the front part of the Stutz, some apprehension has been felt for Lockhart's safety in making speed tests. It is believed the powerful rush of wind shoved up the front part of the car, causing it to somersault.

Lockhart's racer was speeding down the beach at 200 miles an hour when it suddenly swerved and turned a somersault. Lockhart was picked up, limp and bleeding, and rushed to a hospital.

The present world's record, which was set last Sunday by Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, broke the mark made by Major Malcolm Campbell, of England.

Following Keech's successful assault on the record, Lockhart was more than ever determined to set a new mark. Keech announced that provided Lockhart did break his record, he would try again in the big white triplex.

The body of Lockhart will probably be sent to Indianapolis for burial. Mrs. Lockhart is suffering from the shock of seeing her husband killed before her eyes.

BROWN, FACING LIFE SENTENCE, DIES IN PRISON

Negro Convicted of Hill Murder Passed Away in Ohio Penitentiary.

There will be no second trial of Walter Brown, alias James Flint, the negro who was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary from Pickaway-co several weeks ago for the murder of John Henry Hill.

Brown died late Tuesday at the penitentiary. Death was due to cancer and tuberculosis.

Following his conviction of second degree murder, Brown was taken to the penitentiary and Willie Jones and Earl (Whiskey) Mallett, two material witnesses, were returned to the county jail to be held for the second trial. Jones and Mallett have been in jail at the county's expense for months.

They were released by Sheriff Davis Wednesday.

DEATH TAKES MRS. GOELLER

Henry Folsom went to Lima Wednesday to assist in the organization.

ANTI-HOOVER SLATE WINNER IN PICKAWAY

Extremely Light Vote Shows Huge Margin for Willis Forces Here.

Willis followers—those opposed to Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for president—rolled up a large majority in Pickaway-co in Tuesday's primaries.

Totals from 35 out of the county's 38 precincts show a presidential preference as follows:

Willis, 344; Hoover, 277; Dawes 10; Ross, 4; Lowdep, 3.

The Pickaway-co vote was extremely light. Hardly one-third of the normal vote was cast. There was no Democratic contest.

Willis candidates for delegates-at-large and 11th district delegates to the national convention were favored almost two to one over the Hoover slate in this county. The vote for delegates-at-large follows:

A. Lee Beatty (Willis) 465.
Frank A. Brown (Hoover) 251.
Theodore E. Burton (Hoover) 252.
Mrs. Hugh Clark (Hoover) 231.
E. W. B. Curry (Hoover) 222.

GOV. SMITH SHOWS WELL IN PRIMARIES

Incomplete Returns Indicate Hoover Carries 12 of 21 Districts and "Big Seven."

COLUMBUS, O., April 25 — With an assured majority of the delegation to the Kansas City convention, with the election of all his candidates for the "big seven" and the popular indorsement of the Republican voters of the state Herbert C. Hoover continued piling up a lead in the preferential vote as the returns continued to straggle in today from the Tuesday primary.

Although the total vote may be the lightest of the last two presidential primaries when the final returns are made, Hoover showed remarkable strength in the heavily populated counties and especially in Cuyahoga where he was given a remarkable vote for a primary election.

Along with the Hoover victory in the state, the Democrats indicated their desire to show the country that they still have a tremendous liking for Gov. Al Smith. Although no Democratic candidates were entered in the preferential primary, the names of the aspirants were written in by many of the voters and Smith showed a total of 31,676 in the 5799 precincts. Gov. Donahey gathered 4424 and Atlee Pomerene 7780.

Incomplete returns from the congressional district at this time indicated that Hoover will have at least 31 [illegible] to the Kansas City convention, He has carried 12 of the districts which with the delegation at large will give him that number. The Anti-Hoover forces have carried nine districts with a total of 18 delegates, with one district, the tenth, still in doubt.

Incomplete returns in the Republican preferential show the following results:

Hoover 171,607, Willis 67,817, Olin Ross 6475, Coolidge 139, Lowden 1453, Curtis 8, and Dawes 1987. Of the Dawes vote 787 camefrom Washington county, his birthplace.

In the Democratic preference 5799 precincts reported with the following result: Donahey 4424, Smith 31,676, Pomerene 7780, McAdoo 33, Reed 368, Walsh 35, White 80, Cox 2, Newton D.

Primaries At a Glance

By UNITED PRESS

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, apparently won the majority of delegates in the various primaries and state conventions held here yesterday.

The bitter Ohio Republican race between followers of the commerce secretary and followers of the late Frank B. Willis, ended with Hoover slightly in control of the delegation although the delegation will be divided.

Surprisingly enough Governor Smith won the Ohio endorsement although he had made no efforts in Ohio. He won by about 5 to 1 over Former Senator Atlee Pomerene and Governor Vic Donahey.

Results of the various primaries and conventions today showed:

Ohio—Republicans, Hoover won majority control. Democrat, Smith.

Nevada:— Republicans in convention voted on an uninstructed delegation.

Kansas — Democrats in convention voted to support Rep. W A. Ayres, a native son candidate.

Oklahoma—Republicans in convention voted to support Frank O. Lowden as first choice and Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas as second choice.

Pennsylvania — Primary election resulted in split Republican delegation and 66 of Democratic delegates for Smith.

Massachusetts — Voters at primary overwhelmingly in favor of Herbert Hoover for Republicans and Governor Smith for Democrats.

Chamber Endorses C. M. T. C. Following Plea By Lynch

Following a stirring address by Joseph M. Lynch, the Circleville Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution at its regular meeting Monday night endorsing the Citiens Millitary Training Camps, and urging young men of Pickaway-co to attend.

The endorsement will go out in the form of a letter to United States senators and congressmen urging their support to an amendment to the army appropriations bill providing for training for at least 40,000 men, the same number as provided for last year.

Although Pickaway-co may send 15 young men to these camps, only three went last year, according to Mr. Lynch, who is Pickaway-co chairman of the C. M. T. C.

Mr. Lynch's address follows in part:

"National defense is one of the most important national questions of the day, one deserving of much thought and consideration not only by the heads of our government but also by the civic, political and religious bodies of every community in this nation. A nation is only as strong as the defense it can present against outside attacks, and for this reason it is a subject which warrants the attention of this organization.

"When we speak of national defense we refer to our state of preparedness to combat militaristic attacks fro outside the confines of our government. Or in plain words: 'Just how well are we equipped for war?'

"There is no such thing as militarism in this country, never has been, never will be. Every intelligent American who is honest with himself knows this to be a fact. There is in America no military caste thinking of war and re-

STORM HOLDS UP BREMEN'S FLIGHT

Cold Weather Prevents Test and Blizzard Holds Plane on Island.

ST. AGNES, QUE., April 25 — If the weather allows, the Bremen may depart today from Greenly Island, where it has been isolated for eleven days. The trans-Atlantic plane has been repaired and moved to the ice from which it will hopoff, but a raging blizzard came up yesterday which made it impossible for Captain Koehl, Baron Von Huenfeld and Major Fitzmaurice to leave the island.

The fliers attempted to take the plane up on a short test flight preparatory to flying here but were balked by a cold motor. While trying to get the plane into the air, the storm came up and prevented further efforts.

"Bill" Winston who made a non-stop flight here from Greenly Island, he expected the Bremen to follow soon after him. Winston ran into a terrific snowstorm on the way south.

FLOODS SWEEP SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., April 25 — Flood waters which have driven thousands from their homes in six southern states and caused property damage estimated at $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 threatened new communities today.

FIRE ENDS LIFE

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 25.—Funeral services for Miss Melissa Spratt, 52, who committed suicide by drinking acid in the hayloft of a barn at her home near Cumberland, this county, will be held Thursday, it was announced today. The victim is believed to have become despondent.

Many Species of Bamboo

PEKIN'S FALL IS IMMINENT

Southern Armies Advance and American Consul Asks for Naval Vessels.

WASHINGTON, April 25 — With two southern armies moving northward in Shantung, Shansi, and Chihli Provinces virtually unresisted, the fall of Peking is imminent, according to official military advices reaching here today.

Several hundred Americans scattered throughout northern Shantung Province have been ordered to concentrate in the seaport of Chefoo and state department experts are considering the advisibility of evacuating all Americans in the three war torn provinces. About 2,500 Americans, many of them missionaries are within the potential battle area.

Additional naval vessels have been asked by American Consul Webber at Cheefoo. Two British naval vessels are standing by. A serious diplomatic situation is presented in the possible clash of the Japanese troops and the victorious Nationalist columns.

The capture of Peking has been the aim of the Nationalist military policy for four years. Last year the southern armies advanced as far as Tsingtao, only to be defeated by the diplomatic complications occasioned by the presence of the Japanese at that point.

In the view of some diplomatic observers, the fall of Peking would signalize the consummation of the Nationalist revolution and open the way for the general recognition of a consolidated Chinese government for the first time in decade.

Three thousand American marines, under Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler are stationed at Tientsin, together with 900 troopers of the 15th United States cavalry. Five United States naval vessels are in Tsintoa harbor. A legation guard of 500 marines is on duty at Peking.

Prince of Wales Now Uses Own Typewriter; Rank Amateur, He Says

LONDON, April 25 — Edward, Prince of Wales, may now be added to the ranks of the "two-fingered" stenographers of the world.

Visiting a women's hotel in the East Eend here, the Prince watched a young stenographer rapidly write a letter.

"You can work that machine very fast," he commented. "I am afraid I could not manage it at all.

"I can only use a portable machine, and even then only write with two fingers. I am a rank ameteur."

The Prince revealed he uses his small machine mostly on train journeys to make copies of speeches he had to deliver.

DETROIT WITHOUT WATER

DETROIT, April 25 — About half of Detroit was without fire protection and any water today because of a broken water main at Garland and Harper avenue. The broken 47-inch main supplied water to fire hydrants and to homes and industrial plants in all the city north of Grand Boulevard and west of Harper avenue.

American Taste Leads World Style

PARIS, April 25 —"American taste in women's clothes is leading the world today," says Marjorie Lou, young American woman who has made a big success as a Parisian dressmaker. "By this I do not mean that New York or any other American city would set up a style dictatorship. The modelling of dresses is essentially a French institution. In Paris one talks and breathes style and its sway over fashion is secure.

"Nevertheless, this sway is being influenced by America. The models that please Americans are the ones that are sold. Whether it is the influence of the universal popularity of the American movies, or the increasing travel of smartly-dressed American women of other countries are following the taste of America."

FARM RELIEF BILL FIGHT UNDER WAY

McNary-Haughen Measure Expected to be Debated for a Week.

WASHINGTON, April 25 — The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill moved into front line position on the house calendar today.

Presentation of a special rule for immediate consideration of the McNary-Haugen bill will be the signal for the commencement of a fight that is expected to consume a week.

Reps. Haugen (R) of Iowa, chairman of the house agriculture committee, and Dickinson (R) of Iowa, leader of the so-called "farm bloc," were optimistic as they prepared for the fray. Both predicted that the bill would register a larger vote than a year ago.

Rep. Aswell (D) of Louisiana was named the opposition leader with Rep. Fort (R) of New Jersey bombarding the bill from the Republican side.

Overtake the "72"?

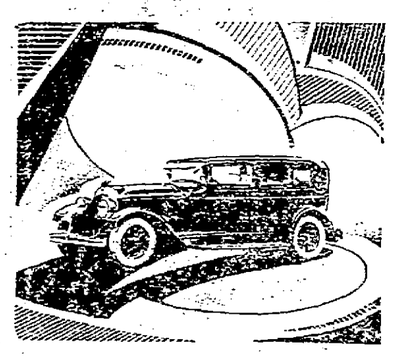
IF CHRYSLER "72" were merely more beautiful—if it were just an average good value—it would deserve no special consideration from the buyer.

But it clamors for his consideration and demands his attention by reason of a gauge and proof of greater value which cannot be escaped.



CHRYSLER "72"

All cars today seek to approximate Chrysler "72" performance by patterning after Chrysler engineering. But after three years of striving, how close are they to the "72" today? No closer than they were three years ago.

As they have struggled to approach, Chrysler "72" has pulled away and gallops around and past them with more than the ease of the old original Chrysler sensation-car of 1924.

There may be pocket-book reasons for choosing cars of lesser price than the "72." There simply cannot be a valid reason for paying as much or more for any car other than the "72."

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. *All prices f. o. b. STORM HOLDS UP BREMEN'S FLIGHT

Cold Weather Prevents Test and Blizzard Holds Plane on Island.

ST. AGNES, QUE., April 25 — If the weather allows, the Bremen may depart today from Greenly Island, where it has been isolated for eleven days. The trans-Atlantic plane has been repaired and moved to the ice from which it will hopoff, but a raging blizzard came up yesterday which made it impossible for Captain Koehl, Baron Von Huenfeld and Major Fitzmaurice to leave the island.

The fliers attempted to take the plane up on a short test flight preparatory to flying here but were balked by a cold motor. While trying to get the plane into the air, the storm came up and prevented further efforts.

"Bill" Winston who made a nonstop flight here from Greenly Island, he expected the Bremen to follow soon after him. Winston ran into a terrific snowstorm on the way south.

FLOODS SWEEP SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., April 25 — Flood waters which have driven thousands from their homes in six southern states and caused property damage estimated at $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 threatened new communities today.

FIRE ENDS LIFE

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 25.—Funeral services for Miss Melissa Spratt, 52, who committed suicide by drinking acid in the hayloft of a barn at her home near Cumberland, this county, will be held Thursday, it was announced today. The victim is believed to have become despondent.

Many Species of Bamboo

Bamboo is a name applied to about 200 species of Bambusa, Arundinaria, Phyllostachys and other genera of grasses, many of which attain a great size, some 70 to 100 feet in height, having trunks a foot in diameter.

PEKIN'S FALL IS IMMINENT

Southern Armies Advance and American Consul Asks for Naval Vessels.

WASHINGTON, April 25 — With two southern armies moving northward in Shantung, Shansi, and Chihli Provinces virtually unresisted, the fall of Peking is imminent, according to official military advices reaching here today.

Several hundred Americans scattered throughout northern Shantung Province have been ordered to concentrate in the seaport of Chefoo and state department experts are considering the advisibility of evacuating all Americans in the three war torn provinces. About 2,500 Americans, many of them missionaries are within the potential battle area.

Additional naval vessels have been asked by American Consul Webber at Cheefoo. Two British naval vessels are standing by.

A serious diplomatic situation is presented in the possible clash of the Japanese troops and the victorious Nationalist columns.

The capture of Peking has been the aim of the Nationalist military policy for four years. Last year the southern armies advanced as far as Tsingtao, only to be defeated by the diplomatic complications occasioned by the presence of the Japanese at that point.

In the view of some diplomatic observers, the fall of Peking would signalize the consummation of the Nationalist revolution and open the way for the general recognition of a consolidated Chinese government for the first time in decade.

Three thousand American marines, under Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler are stationed at Tientsin, together with 900 troopers of the 15th United States cavalry. Five United States naval vessels are in Tsintoa harbor. A legation guard of 500 marines is on duty at Peking.

Prince of Wales Now Uses Own Typewriter; Rank Amateur, He Says

LONDON, April 25 — Edward, Prince of Wales, may now be added to the ranks of the "two-fingered" stenographers of the world.

Visiting a women's hotel in the East Eend here, the Prince watched a young stonegrapher radily write a letter.

"You can work that machine very fast," he commented. "I am afraid I could not manage it at all.

"I can only use a portable machine, and even then only write with two fingers. I am a rank ameteur."

The Prince revealed he uses his small machine mostly on train journeys to make copies of speeches he had to deliver.

DETROIT WITHOUT WATER

DETROIT, April 25 — About half of Detroit was without fire protection and any water today because of a broken water main at Garland and Harper avenue. The broken 47-inch main supplied water to fire hydrants and to homes and industrial plants in all the city north of Grand Boulevard and west of Harper avenue.

American Taste Leads World Style

PARIS, April 25 —"American taste in women's clothes is leading the world today," says Marjorie Lou, young American woman who has made a big success as a Parisian dressmaker. "By this I do not mean that New York or any other American city would set up a style dictatorship. The modelling of dresses is essentially a French institution. In Paris one talks and breathes style and its sway over fashion is secure.

"Nevertheless, this sway is being influenced by America. The models that please Americans are the ones that are sold. Whether it is the influence of the universal popularity of the American movies, or the increasing travel of smartly-dressed American women of other countries are following the taste of America."

FARM RELIEF BILL FIGHT UNDER WAY

McNary-Haughen Measure Expected to be Debated for a Week.

WASHINGTON, April 25 — The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill moved into front line position on the house calendar today.

Presentation of a special rule for immediate consideration of the McNary-Haugen bill will be the signal for the commencement of a fight that is expected to consume a week.

Reps. Haugen (R) of Iowa, chairman of the house agriculture committee, and Dickinson (R) of Iowa, leader of the so-called "farm bloc," were optimistic as they prepared for the fray. Both predicted that the bill would register a larger vote than a year ago.

Rep. Aswell (D) of Louisiana was named the opposition leader with Rep. Fort (R) of New Jersey bombarding the bill from the Republican side.

Evangelical Ladies' Aid and Loyal Legion Elect Officers

AT an election of officers of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Evangelical Church, held Tuesday night, Miss Mae Hudnell was elected president, Mrs. Emma Miller, 1st vice president; Mrs. H. H. Eyman, 2nd vice president; Miss Goldie Noggle, secretary, and Miss Lydia Leist, Treasurer.

Temperance Legion

Loyal Temperance Legion met in the basement of the Evangelical Church, Monday evening. The meeting opened with prayer by the leader, Mrs. Katie Denman, and was followed by a short talk on the Temperance Pledge.

This preceded the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Forest Storts, president; Boyd Horn, vice-president; Tom Conrad, secretary; Harry Richey, organist, and Ross Carothers, treasurer and cheer leader.

After the election of officers, Ross Carothers, as cheer leader, gave a short talk to the boys, and the members then all joined in a short practice of some of their yells and slogans.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business session.

These eight boys were present: Forest Storts, Harry Richey, Tom Conrad, Gay Conrad, Ross Carothers, Verneal Thomas, William Ramey, and Marcus Graves.

Committees Chosen For Supper Honoring George Grand-Girard

ELGAR BARRERE is general chairman of the supper which will be held next Monday night, April 30, in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church, in honor of the 50th anniversary of the year that George Grand-Girard entered the drug business at the present location. On May 1, 1878, he went into business with his brother, Herdman Grand-Girard, and since that day he has "carried on" at the same location.

He has received many letters of congratulation from different business houses, one letter mentioning the fact that on May 1, 1878, Mr. Grand-Girard had bought an order of goods from the firm.

The supper will be served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church, at 6:30 o'clock. Senator C. C. Chappelear will be master of ceremonies and will introduce an out-of-town speaker for the evening. Other speakers will be Joseph Wilder and the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier of Circleville, and George Hunsicker of Williamsport.

Trustees of the church will be represented in the celebration by C. A. Weldon, the session by Wilson F. Cellar, the deacons by Mr. Barrere, and the laymen of the church by Harry Stevenson. The representatives of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce are Paul Johnson, Joseph Burns, and Harry Denman.

CHEST CLINIC HERE MAY 8-9

Local and State Health Authorities Arrange for Examinations.

A diagnostic chest clinic with thorough physical examination of persons believed to have incipient cases of tuberculosis will be conducted in Circleville in the next few weeks as part of the state and district health program Dr. G. W. Heffner, county health commissioner, announced Wednesday, following receipt from the State Department of Health of an offer to install such service here. This service will be without expense to those examined.

The health commissioners have suggested May 8 and 9 as the dates for the clinic. Two recognized chest specialists will conduct the examinations, assisted by a nurse from the State Department of Health.

The local clinic will be the 113th of a series to be conducted in the state during the next year.

Patients are secured from every part of the city and county.

WOMEN'S CLUB WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS

There will be a meeting of the Professional and Business Women's club Thursday night at 7:30 in their rooms in the Chamber of Commerce building. The presence of all the members is earnestly desired as the election of new officers will be held. The program committee has promised a surprise.

Evangelical Ladies' Aid and Loyal Legion Elect Officers

AT an election of officers of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Evangelical Church, held Tuesday night, Miss Mae Hudnell was elected president, Mrs. Emma Miller, 1st vice president, Mrs. H. H. Eyman, 2nd vice president; Miss Goldie Noggle, secretary, and Miss Lydia Leist, Treasurer.

Temperance Legion

Loyal Temperance Legion met in the basement of the Evangelical Church, Monday evening. The meeting opened with prayer by the leader, Mrs. Katie Denman, and was followed by a short talk on the Temperance Pledge.

This preceded the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Forest Storts, president; Boyd Horn, vice-president; Tom Conrad, secretary; Harry Richey, organist, and Ross Carothers, treasurer and cheer leader.

After the election of officers, Ross Carothers, as cheer leader, gave a short talk to the boys, and the members then all joined in a short practice of some of their yells and slogans.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business session.

These eight boys were present: Forest Storts, Harry Richey, Tom Conrad, Gay Conrad, Ross Carothers, Verneal Thomas, William Ramey, and Marcus Graves.

Committees Chosen For Supper Honoring George Grand-Girard

ELGAR BARRERE is general chairman of the supper which will be held next Monday night, April 30, in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church, in honor of the 50th anniversary of the year that George Grand-Girard entered the drug business at the present location. On May 1 1878, he went into busihess with his brother, Herdman Grand-Girard, and since that day he has "carried on" at the same location.

He has received many letters of congratulation from different business houses, one letter mentioning the fact that on May 1, 1878, Mr. Grand-Girard had bought an order of goods from the firm.

The supper will be served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church, at 6:30 o'clock. Senator C. C. Chappelear will be master of ceremonies and will introduce an out-of-town speaker for the evening. Other speakers will be Joseph Wilder and the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier of Circleville, and George Hunsicker of Williamsport.

Trustees of the church will be represented in the celebration by C. A. Weldon, the session by Wilson F. Cellar, the deacons by Mr. Barrere, and the laymen of the church by Harry Stevenson. The representatives of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce are Paul Johnson, Joseph Burns, and Harry Denman.

CHEST CLINIC HERE MAY 8-9

Local and State Health Authorities Arrange for Examinations.

A diagnostic chest clinic with thorough physical examination of persons believed to have incipient cases of tuberculosis will be conducted in Circleville in the next few weeks as part of the state and district health program Dr. G. W. Heffner, county health commissioner, announced Wednesday, following receipt from the State Department of Health of an offer to install such service here. This service will be without expense to those examined.

The health commissioners have suggested May 8 and 9 as the dates for the clinic. Two recognized chest specialists will conduct the examinations, assisted by a nurse from the State Department of Health.

The local clinic will be the 113th of a series to be conducted in the state during the next year.

Patients are secured from every part of the city and county.

WOMEN'S CLUB WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS

There will be a meeting of the Professional and Business Women's club Thursday night at 7:30 in their rooms in the Chamber of Commerce building. The presence of all the members is earnestly desired as the election of new officers will be held. The program committee has promised a surprise.

FORMER FRIENDS ENGAGE IN DUEL

One Dead and Another Dying When Gossip Leads to Shooting.

CHICAGO, April 25 — One man was dead and another was perhaps fatally wounded today as the result of a revolver duel which grew out of neighborhood gossip.

The dead man is Jay L. Martineau, 35. The man who killed him and in turn received dangerous wounds is Roy Dumont, 35, a widower.

The men, close friends for years, with their families, had shared the same apartment. Gossip of neighbors caused a breach in their friendship.

Last night the two former friends met. Martineau fired a bullet into Dumont's abdomen. The latter fired five times at Martineau, killing him on the spot. Children of both men witnessed the shooting.

HUBBY WELCOMES LONG TRESSES

PARIS, APRIL 25.—French husbands may be the cause of the bringing back of long locks, according to some of the coiffeurs who say that they are the ones who are complaining about the high prices for hairdressing. Contrary to what a fair lady pleaded to the head of the house, short hair has not meant a decrease in family expenses. Cutting and curling mean frequent trips to the barber's and a bigger allowance for Madame.

"Unfortunately," writes one husband, "charges for such work are not what they used to be a century ago. Hippolyte le Jeune was the fashionable hairdresser at the time when Mme. Auchard, nurse of the little King of Rome, was obliged to keep her hair short. Each time he made a trip to the Tuileres to curl his hair, the charge used to be twelve francs, a little more than two dollars. The same service could not be had now for less than four times the price."

Mines Wouldn't Explode

"The Battle of Kegs," in which floating "mines" were first used in American military history, took place January 5, 1777. The kegs were filled with explosives and set afloat in the Delaware river. None of them exploded!

garding war as its natural occupation. The officers of the army and navy do not desire war. America is the only great country in which the fighting services are exempt from all that is expressed in the single word, 'militarism.'

"We are the greatest nation on earth today because the majority of our people habitually think clearly and act correctly on questions affecting the public welfare. We have ever been the champions of right and justice among the other nations of the world, and we never waged an unprovoked or unjust war against any other country. Nevertheless during our comparative brief history we have in spite of our natural love of peace been forced to engage in six great wars, on the average of one for every 25 years of our national existence; or one war to each generation.

"No right thinking man wants war any more than he wants public execution but both are some times necessary to protect the rights of law abiding people. Our government guarantees its citizens, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. When these rights are threatened by a foreign power, it is the solemn duty of the government to protect them, even to the extent of declaring war on the aggressor if necessary.

"I am glad that when the Hun attempted to establish a Pan Germanic empire the world united to resist the attempt. The World war was worth all it cost. Awful as was the tragedy of the war, the tragedy of world submission would have been greater.

"There are those who say 'let's muster out the army and navy and abolish war by arbitration.' Why not discharge all our police forces and abolish crime by persuasion? Both proposals are equally devoid of logic or common sense.

"No man who ever served in battle wants to see war again. He knows what it is in all its brutal horror. He is the real honest pacifist. He will make every honorable sacrifice to maintain peace.

"It cannot be denied that the United States entered the World war in a bad state of unpreparedness. When war was declared April 7, 1917, this government had a mere handful of trained soldiers. True we raised a large army almost over night. But what kind of an army was it? Marshal Hindenberg, now president of Germany, answered that question when he said he did not think so much of the American Army. Why? It lacked training. And because it lacked training it lacked effeciency. That is, it was not able to win a given objective with a minimum loss of life. American troops were brave as lions and generally got what they went after, but they paid very dearly for their victories. This in substance is what Hindenberg had to say of American troops in the World war.

"Speaking of their fighting on the Meuse and their casualties there, he said, 'The experience of these masses will have taught the United States for the future that this business of war cannot be learned in a few months.'

Here Mr. Lynch gave an impressive description of the Meuse-Argone and Champagne battles in which he took part, during the World war. Continuing, he said:

"Lack of experience cost streams of blood, the blood of America's best and bravest young men who have ever responded to the call to arms in defense of their country and heroically offered their lives, if necessary, for the preservation of its ideals and its institutions.

"Hindenberg brings home to us very forcibly the necessity of adequate national defense. The young men of the coming generation will respond as have those of past generations responded if the call ever reaches them, which God forbid, but if it ever does come are we going to ask them to face the call as did those who answered the call in 1917?

"Today our national defense is in better condition than ever before. But much is yet to be done. We do not want to burden the people with an army that would tax the countries resources to maintain. But we do want sufficient military training that would give us enough men trained in the rudiments of war to form a nucleus of a well trained army.

"To do this the War Department has established four branches of training. The regular army for intensive training, the National Guard for elementary training, the Organized Officers Reserve from whence to draw men trained to command, and the Citizens Military Training Camps for the instruction of young men in the fundamental principals of military tactics with the end in view of creating an Officers Reserve. It is for this last mentioned service I am to make my request.

"These camps are held for 30 days each year and provide military training for young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years. It brings together young men of all types and from different sections of the country for the development of closer national and social unity, to teach them the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizens; and to develop them physically, mentally, and morally along the lines calculated to increase their individual effeciency and our national strength both civil and military.

"The complete course of Citizens Military Training Camps contemplates attendance at four annual camps, but the system of training is voluntary. You may attend the first year without obligating yourself in any way to take any further training. But if a young man completes the course and has demonstrated his ability to command he receives a second lieutenancy in the organized officers reserve of the army."

Arthur A. Hoopingarner of The Circleville Herald and Union-Herald preceded Mr. Lynch with a brief review of the newspaper situation.

Not For Civilians

Custom Too Strong

[illegible]

It's the money youspend wisely that counts

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable to help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you spend for this. Spend all of it, but dont spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from the advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read the advertising. A little more value here . . . a little better workmanship there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

It certainly pays to read the advertisements

PRAYER—O Lord, our help is in Thee.

THE FARMER'S CHANCE

AGRICULTURE is the basic industry of the nation, and if the farmers do well with the crops they are putting into the ground, this spring, the whole country will shine with prosperity. But if conditions work against them, every industry will eventually suffer from their lack of purchasing power.

It has generally been admitted that the farmers have not fared as well in the readjustments following the war, as the business and industrial interests have. A difference of opinion exists as to whether this discrepency should be removed by some form of government action, or whether the farmers must work out of this situation by improved methods of operation to be initiated by themselves. But somehow farming must be placed on a level with the rest of the country, or results will occur that will hurt every American city and town.

Years ago farmers and their families were content to live a more or less isolated life. They did not seem to mind it much, if their interests were mostly bounded by the limits of their own land.

But today they are bright and wide awake people who demand an equal chance with the rest of us. They expect education for their children, an automobile to get in and out of some good market town like Circleville, a comfortable home with modern conveniences, and a pleasant social life.

The farmer can get a large part of his food rather cheaply, and his house rent should not cost him high if he buys for a fair price. But the various items in his budget call for a fair income. If he can't have it, millions of his kind will flock to the cities. This will reduce food production and make prices higher. Wherefore it will pay in the end to give the farmer and his family a fair chance, to induct them to stay where they are.

AFTER DINNER SPEAKERS

ONE of America's most famous men, Chauncey Depew, attained that fame to a large extent by his gifts as an after dinner speaker. Although he had a career of great achievement in the business world, yet the after dinner speechmaking probably did the most to spread his fame. Somehow those graceful and witty words of his found their way into every home.

There are multitudes of after dinner speakers in this country, and many more who think they are, but really aren't. They might well take Mr. Depew as a model.

Mr. Depew made free use of humor. When you get people to laughing at the incongruities of life, you send away the glooms that inhibit their natures, and they are ready to receive information or to be moved by inspiring talk. A good after dinner speaker first amuses then he informs, and then he inspires. Mr. Depew did all three things.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATIONS

THE movement to consolidate the railroads into a limited number of great systems seems to be making progress, and apparently some very important consolidations of the eastern railroads will take place before long, and are likely to be followed by similar mergers in the rest of the country.

The American people used to be fearful about such unions of these great corporations. They feared the power thus concentrated in a few hands. But today sentiment seems to favor such unions, if subject to government supervision. Too many separate systems mean too many separate jobs and expenses, which the public will eventually have to pay for. Yet the people want to see enough competition left, so that some incentive is given to serve the public most effectively.

Old San Francisco

BY ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Hernandez Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores occupy the old Vasquez ranch handed down from the first Vasquez on a grant from the King of Spain. The prosperity that came to San Francisco by the discovery of gold in California missed the Vasquez hacienda where indolent ways did not keep abreast of modern progress. But the Vasquez acres are coveted by Buckwell, political boss of San Francisco. His lawyer, Brandon, with Brandon's nephew, Terry, are sent to the ranch to buy it. Brandon fails to accomplish his task, but Terry falls in love with Dolores.

As he sat in his living room, his hand resting on the table, he was the personification of power—at its worst. He idly drummed with his fingers as he gazed out of the window. Obviously he was waiting for someone. A gentle tapping on the paneled wall brought him cautiously to his feet. Tip-toeing across the room, he pressed a hidden button in the wainscoting. A portion of the wall slid back noiselessly and a girl wrapped in a huge silken shawl stepped into the room.

With a word of caution Buckwell went to the door and locked it. As the girl removed the shawl she stood revealed in all the lovely silken allurement of the East. Evidently a half-caste with all the seductiveness and charm that only the orient can produce, her complexion was as softly pink as a peach bloom, her big, questioning eyes revealed nothing but mystery in their hidden depths.

"You're a wise Chink, Lu Fong," said Buckwell.

Buckwell turned briskly from the door and said: "What is it you want? Speak quickly! There's a delegation from Chinatown due here any minute."

"That is it. I came to warn you. All Chinatown is in a furor. They all say that this time you have gone too far. Lu Fong, their leader, has spoken the word. They will kill you if you don't ease up on your demands." Her voice came soft and low like the whispering of a spring wind through the willows.

For a moment Buckwell was startled out of his usual calm. His face paled and his eyes took on a squinty slant that gave him a queer oriental look, entirely foreign to his usual appearance. It was gone in a second and he was again the strong, masterful leader—the demigod of the underworld.

"All right, San Toy. I'll be careful. Thanks for the warning. I won't forget it." He seemed entirely oblivious to the alluring charm of his visitor. Perhaps it was because something more momentous was pending, or it may have been that the charm had long since lost its ability to please.

San Toy was disappointed. She clearly showed by her manner that she expected something more, but Buckwell was obdurant and taking her gently but firmly by the arm guided her to the partition and out through the sliding panel from which she had entered. San Toy disappeared down a dark stairway as mysteriously as she came and the panel clicked behind her.

Buckwell unlocked the door and returned to the table with an ominous frown on his face. And he was just in time. Hardly had he been seated when a servant announced that the delegation was waiting to see him. With a wave of the hand he indicated that they were to be brought before him.

Six Chinamen entered, followed by several ward bosses. Buckwell nodded and waved them to the vacant chairs around the table. The bosses sat down entirely at ease and as one man proceeded to light cigars. Tilting back their chairs they waited for whatever was to happen.

The Chinamen either did not see Buckwell's invitation to be seated or else chose deliberately to ignore it. They came forward to the table, bowed deeply and arranging themselves before it stood motionless with right hands slipped into the sleeve of the other arm. Lu Fong, their leader and spokesman, was slightly in advance of the others.

Buckwell eyed them silently and with a countenance as imperturable as their own. Suddenly reaching across the table he seized a strong paper cutter in his right hand and closing his fist on it snapped the steel in two and tossed the pieces into the fireplace.

The bosses stirred uneasily, but Lu Fong and his friends did not seem to notice. If the exhibition was an object lesson to them it failed of its purpose. Buckwell sensed this immediately, for throwing all pretense aside, he pointed his finger menacingly and said: "Lu Fong, this is the showdown. We warned you before to confine your business strictly to Chinatown. You haven't done it and now you'll sell your holdings at the figure I offered or we'll close you up tighter than a drum. And remember this—from now on no Chink can own property outside of the Chinese district." He sank back in his chair to note the effect of his latest and most severe edict.

The situation was tense. No one said a word, but every eye in the room was on the inscrutable features of Lu Fong. The tong leaders watched him anxiously, as if trying to discover what it was all about, though willing to abide by whatever he said.

Lu Fong gazed at Buckwell silently. He was evidently weighing the situation carefully, fully recognizing the strength of those pitted against him. Then, as if there was nothing else to be done, he shrugged his shoulders slightly and smiled faintly. With true oriental grace he bowed low in acceptance of the inevitable and said: "Even though the Gods place the greater power in the hands of thy adversary, one must still bow to the will of the Gods."

"You're a wise Chink, Lu Fong," said Buckwell with a smile of satisfaction. "You know when you're licked. I'll meet you at the Foodle Dog tomorrow night at nine o'clock and we'll close the deal."

The conference was over. Once again Buckwell and his henchmen had triumphed.

Lu Fong nodded in agreement to the meeting and with his tong men at his heels shuffled from the room.

The bosses waited until they had disappeared and then gathered around Buckwell, slapping him on the back with many jests of congratulation. Soon they departed with gruff chuckles and a wave of their hands. They, too, were satisfied. There would soon be more easy money for their tills.

Buckwell was alone only for a moment when the servant again appeared and announced Brandon and his nephew, Terence O'Shaughnessy.

Brandon came forward with a frown on his face. His dismissal from the Vasquez rancho still rankled.

Buckwell greeted him with a smile, still thinking of his recent victory over the tong leaders.

Well, Brandon, what success?"

Brandon replied a bit hesitatingly: "I saw Vasquez, Chris, but the old fool refused to sell at any price."

Terry came up to the table as he heard his uncle mention the name of Vasquez. His interest quickened as he realized the real purport of their visit to the old hacienda.

Buckwell's smile changed into a scowl as he stared at Brandon. He seldom failed in getting what he wanted and could not stand failure in anyone who worked for him. Brandon shifted uncomfortably as Buckwell said: "I want that land and I intend to get it. I would have paid Vasquez the price I told you, but now I'll spend the money to prove that his grants are invalid."

Terry heard this with a worried expression. Dolores had become deeply entrenched in his heart and he was anxious about her.

Buckwell continued: "Send him word that I have investigated his grants and found them valueless—and that he must prepare to vacate."

This was going a bit too far for Terry to remain apart from the conversation any longer, and he stepped up to Buckwell, saying: "But that hardly seems fair. The Vasquez family have lived on that old estate for generations."

Buckwell looked at Terry quickly, as if noticing him for the first time. Brandon saw that Buckwell was offended and anxious to keep in his good graces, intervened meaningly: "Terry is influenced by the fact that old Vasquez has a beautiful granddaughter."

He leered knowingly, and Buckwell, catching the intent, nodded wisely and chuckled.

EARTHQUAKES ROCK BALKANS

Athens Shaken and Population Flees to Open Country—Corinth Destroyed.

LONDON, April 25 — Earthquakes continued to raise havoc in the Balkans today.

Athens was rocked by a severe shock early this morning, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. No casualties were reported.

The population was panic-stricken and sought the open-country for safety. The first shock was followed by several others of minor intensity which were accompanied by rain and hail storms.

The few structures in Corinth which survived Monday's quakes were destroyed by today's shocks, the dispatches stated.

Exceptionally high tides were noted at the seaport of Praieus before and after the shocks.

CHECKING UP ON THE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Woman Is Witness At Paris Beheading; Was Victim's Lawyer

PARIS, April 25 — For the first time, a woman has been a witness at the guillotine in France. Not even newspaper women have been allowed this privilege. Madame Erlich, "Maitre Erlich," as she is known about the Palace of Justice served as lawyer for two Poles recently condemned to death.

"Unfortunately I could not win their freedom for them," she said after the trial, "but I shall follow them to the guillotine, for I can speak their language and may be able to help at the moment of expiation."

On the fatal day she arose at 4 o'clock, dressed all in black and hurried to the place of execution. One of the Poles kissed her hand and thanked her for what she had done to try to save them. Madame Erlich remained calm and silent until all was over.

Florida Farmers Break Fruit Shipping Record

MIAMI, Fla., April 25.—All records for the past 12 months in produce shipments north from Miami were shattered here in the past two weeks when approximately 650 carloads of vegetables and fruit were shipped from the Miami district to north and eastern markets.

These are the figures just announced by Robert Hunter, travelling passenger agent for the Merchants and Miners Steamship Company. Despite one severe cold spell in the Everglades farmers produced a bumper crop and shipments will run heavy for an additional month.

Fifty Years To Come Will Bring Great Changes, Says Philip Gibbs

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Fifty years from now, in the opinion of Sir Philip Gibbs, British journalist and novelist, there will be——

No motor cars.
No restaurants.
Perhaps no telephones or telegraph.
And maybe no newspapers.

By 1978 all this thing will be out of date, he says in his new book, "The Day After Tomorrow," which concerns conditions that will exist a half century from now.

In twenty-five years, he predicts, the motor car will be obsolete because by that time the airplane will run around the ground as well as over it.

Aerial Highways Crowded

"The ordinary man will take the air as now he gets into a motor car," he writes. "The aerial highways will be crowded with the traffic of tourists, trippers, traders and persons paying social visits to friends and families hundreds of miles away."

Fifty years from now there will be no restaurants, according to the picture he envisions sitting before his typewriter as if it were a crystal glass. He says there will be "no public banquets with seventeen courses to poison the guests, no anxiety for the young married woman who has been advised to feed the brute."

"There will be," he explains, "a few bottles of A. B. C. or D vitamins on the mantel shelf from which the family and friends will help themselves—just a drop or two on a dry biscuit—when their intellectual activities call for a little refreshment."

Thought transference, or mental telepathy, will be in use years from now. It probably will have displaced the telegraph and telephone, he thinks by 1978. He visualizes the hard-working business man going into a darkened room, where he can concentrate and establishing mental communication with a client or a prospect in another country, thousands of miles away.

Newspapers In Museums

Newspapers may become curiosities, to be found only in museums, because, he believes, television will permit movie audiences to watch and hear the scene of contemporary history as it is being enacted all over the globe. When television reaches its full development, it is Sir Philip's idea that reading may become only a hobby to the old-fashioned folk and great students.

Sir Philip insists that what he has written in his new book is not fantastic. He cites the cold statement of scientists to establish that his theories are logical in view of the irresistible march of progress. This is not his first venture in prophecy. In a previous volume, "Ten Years After," he made predictions that since have been verified, particularly ones that related to aviation and its possibilities.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Hernandez Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores occupy the old Vasquez ranch handed down from the first Vasquez on a grant from the King of Spain. The prosperity that came to San Francisco by the discovery of gold in California missed the Vasquez hacienda where indolent ways did not keep abreast of modern progress. But the Vasquez acres are coveted by Buckwell, political boss of San Francisco His lawyer, Brandon, with Brandon's nephew Terry, are sent to the ranch to buy it Brandon fails to accomplish his task, but Terry falls in love with Dolores.

As he sat in his living room, his hand resting on the table, he was the personification of power—at its worst. He idly drummed with his fingers as he gazed out of the window. Obviously he was waiting for someone A gentle tapping on the paneled wall brought him cautiously to his feet. Tip-toeing across the room, he pressed a hidden button in the wainscoting A portion of the wall slid back noiselessly and a girl wrapped in a huge silken shawl stepped into the room.

With a word of caution Buckwell went to the door and locked it As the girl removed the shawl she stood revealed in all the lovely silken allurement of the East Evidently a half-caste with all the seductiveness and charm that only the orient can produce, her complexion was as softly pink as a peach bloom, her big, questioning eyes revealed nothing but mystery in their hidden depths

"You're a wise Chink, Lu Fong," said Buckwell.

Buckwell turned briskly from the door and said: "What is it you want? Speak quickly! There's a delegation from Chinatown due here any minute"

"That is it I came to warn you All Chinatown is in a furor. They all say that this time you have gone too far. Lu Fong, their leader, has spoken the word They will kill you if you don't ease up on your demands" Her voice came soft and low like the whispering of a spring wind through the willows

For a moment Buckwell was startled out of his usual calm His face paled and his eyes took on a squinty slant that gave him a queer oriental look, entirely foreign to his usual appearance. It was gone in a second and he was again the strong, masterful leader—the demigod of the underworld

"All right, San Toy. I'll be careful Thanks for the warning I won't forget it." He seemed entirely oblivious to the alluring charm of his visitor Perhaps it was because something more momentous was pending, or it may have been that the charm had long since lost its ability to please

San Toy was disappointed She clearly showed by her manner that she expected something more, but Buckwell was obdurant and taking her gently but firmly by the arm guided her to the partition and out through the sliding panel from which she had entered. San Toy disappeared down a dark stairway as mysteriously as she came and the panel clicked behind her.

Buckwell unlocked the door and returned to the table with an ominous frown on his face And he was just in time Hardly had he been seated when a servant announced that the delegation was waiting to see him With a wave of the hand he indicated that the were to be brought before him

Six Chinamen entered, followed by several ward bosses Buckwell nodded and waved them to the vacant chairs around the table The bosses sat down at once at and as one man proceeded to light cigars. Taking back their ease they waited for whatever was to happen.

The Chinamen after did not sit Buckwell's invitation to be seated or else chose deliberately to ignore it They came forward to the table, bowed deeply and arranging themselves before it stood motionless with right hands slipped into the sleeve of the other arm Lu Fong, their leader and spokesman, was slightly in advance of the others.

Buckwell eyed them silently and with a countenance as impenetrable as their own Suddenly reaching across the table he seized a strong paper cutter in his right hand and closing his fist on it snapped the steel in two and tossed the pieces into the fireplace

The bosses started uneasily, but Lu Fong and his friends did not seem to notice If the exhibition was an object lesson to them it failed of its purpose Buckwell sensed this immediately, for throwing all pretense aside, he pointed his finger menacingly and said "Lu Fong, this is the showdown We warned you before to confine your business strictly to Chinatown You haven't done it and now you'll sell your holdings at the figure I offered or we'll close you up tighter than a drum And remember this—from now on no Chink can own property outside of the Chinese district" He sank back in his chair to note the effect of his latest and most severe edict

The situation was tense No one said a word, but every eye in the room was on the inscrutable features of Lu Fong The long leaders watched him anxiously, as if trying to discover what it was all about, though willing to abide by whatever he said

Lu Fong gazed at Buckwell silently He was evidently weighing the situation carefully, fully recognizing the strength of those pitted against him. Then, as if there was nothing else to be done, he shrugged his shoulders slightly and smiled faintly. With true oriental grace he bowed low in acceptance of the inevitable and said: "Even though the Gods place the greater power in the hands of thy adversary, one must still bow to the will of the Gods"

"You're a wise Chink, Lu Fong," said Buckwell with a smile of satisfaction "You know when you're licked I'll meet you at the Foodle Dog tomorrow night at nine o'clock and we'll close the deal"

The conference was over Once again Buckwell and his henchmen had triumphed

Lu Fong nodded in agreement to the meeting and with his tong men at his heels shuffled from the room.

The bosses waited until they had disappeared and then gathered around Buckwell, slapping him on the back with many jests of congratulation Soon they departed with gruff chuckles and a wave of their hands They, too, were satisfied. There would soon be more easy money for their pile

Buckwell was alone only for a moment when the servant again appeared and announced Brandon and his nephew, Terence O'Shaughnessy

Brandon came forward with a frown on his face His dismissal from the Vasquez rancho still rankled

Buckwell greeted him with a smile, still thinking of his recent victory over the tong leaders

Well, Brandon, what success?"

Brandon replied a bit hesitatingly: "I saw Vasquez Cuvis, but the old fool refused to sell at any price."

Terry came up to the table as he heard his uncle mention the name of Vasquez. His interest quickened as he realized the real purport of their visit to the old hacienda

Buckwell's smile changed into a scowl as he stared at Brandon. He seldom failed in getting what he wanted and could not stand failure in anyone who worked for him. Brandon shifted uncomfortably as Buckwell said: "I want that land and I intend to get it. I would have paid Vasquez the price I told you, but now I'll spend the money to prove that his grants are invalid"

Terry heard this with a worried expression. Dolores had become deeply entrenched in his heart and he was anxious about her.

Buckwell continued: "Send him word that I have investigated his grants and found them valueless—and that he must prepare to vacate"

This was going a bit too far for Terry to remain apart from the conversation any longer, and he stepped up to Buckwell, saying: "But that hardly seems fair The Vasquez family have lived on that old estate for generations"

Buckwell looked at Terry quickly, as if noticing him for the first time Brandon saw that Buckwell resented and awaited to keep on his good graces [illegible] by the fact that all [illegible] was a special favorite

CHECKING UP ON THE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Woman Is Witness At Paris Beheading; Was Victim's Lawyer

PARIS, April 25 — For the first time, a woman has been a witness at the guillotine in France Not even newspaper women have been allowed this privilege Madame Erlich, "Maitre Erlich" as she is known about the Palace of Justice served as lawyer for two Poles recently condemned to death

"Unfortunately I could not win their freedom for them," she said after the trial, "but I shall follow them to the guillotine, for I can speak their language and may be able to help at the moment of expiation."

On the fatal day she arose at 4 o'clock, dressed all in black and hurried to the place of execution. One of the Poles kissed her hand and thanked her for what she had done to try to save them Madame Erlich remained calm and silent until all was over

Florida Farmers Break Fruit Shipping Record

MIAMI, Fla., April 25—All records for the past 12 months in produce shipments north from Miami were shattered here in the past two weeks when approximately 650 carloads of vegetables and fruit were shipped from the Miami district to north and eastern markets

These are the figures just announced by Robert Hunter, traveling passenger agent for the Merchants and Miners Steamship Company Despite one severe cold spell in the Everglades farmers produced a bumper crop and shipments will run heavy for an additional month.

Fifty Years To Come Will Bring Great Changes, Says Philip Gibbs

By JAMES L KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 25—Fifty years from now, in the opinion of Sir Philip Gibbs, British journalist and novelist, there will be——

No motor cars
No restaurants.
Perhaps no telephones or telegraph
And maybe no newspapers

By 1978 all this thing will be out of date, he says in his new book, "The Day After Tomorrow," which concerns conditions that will exist a half century from now

In twenty-five years, he predicts, the motor car will be obsolete because by that time the airplane will run around the ground as well as over it

Aerial Highways Crowded

"The ordinary man will take the air as now he gets into a motor car," he writes. "The aerial highways will be crowded with the traffic of tourists, trippers, traders and persons paying social visits to friends and families hundreds of miles away"

Fifty years from now there will be no restaurants, according to the picture he envisions sitting before his typewriter as if it were a crystal glass. He says there will be "no public banquets with seventeen courses to poison the guests no anxiety for the young married woman who has been advised to feed the brute."

"There will be," he explains, "a few bottles of A B C, or D vitamins on the mantel shelf from which the family and friends will help themselves—just a drop or two on a dry biscuit—when their intellectual activities call for a little refreshment."

Thought transference, or mental telepathy, will be in use years from now It probably will have displaced the telegraph and telephone he thinks by 1978. He visualizes the hard-working business man going into a darkened room where he can concentrate and establishing mental communication with a client or a prospect in another country, thousands of miles away.

Newspapers In Museums

Newspapers may become curiosities, to be found only in museums, because, he believes, television will permit movie audiences to watch and hear the scene of contemporary history as it is being enacted all over the globe When television reaches its full development, it is Sir Philip's idea that reading may become only a hobby to the old-fashioned folk and great students.

Sir Philip insists that what he has written in his new book is not fantastic. He cites the cold statement of scientists to establish that his theories are logical in view of the irresistible march of progress This is not his first venture in prophecy. In a previous volume, "Ten Years After," he made predictions that since have been verified, particularly one that related to aviation and its possibilities.

FORMER FRIENDS ENGAGE IN DUEL

One Dead and Another Dying When Gossip Leads to Shooting.

CHICAGO, April 25 — One man was dead and another was perhaps fatally wounded today as the result of a revolver duel which grew out of neighborhood gossip.

The dead man is Jay L. Martineau, 35. The man who killed him and in turn received dangerous wounds is Roy Dumont, 35, a widower.

The men, close friends for years, with their families had shared the same apartment. Gossip of neighbors caused a breach in their friendship.

Last night the two former friends met. Martineau fired a bullet into Dumont's abdomen. The latter fired five times at Martineau, killing him on the spot. Children of both men witnessed the shooting.

HUBBY WELCOMES LONG TRESSES

PARIS, APRIL 25.—French husbands may be the cause of the bringing back of long locks, according to some of the coiffeurs who say that they are the ones who are complaining about the high prices for hairdressing. Contrary to what a fair lady pleaded to the head of the house, short hair has not meant a decrease in family expenses. Cutting and curling mean frequent trips to the barber's and a bigger allowance for Madame.

"Unfortunately," writes one husband, "charges for such work are not what they used to be a century ago. Hippolyte le Jeune was the fashionable hairdresser at the time when Mme. Auchard, nurse of the little King of Rome, was obliged to keep her hair short. Each time he made a trip to the Tuileres to curl his hair, the charge used to be twelve francs, a little more than two dollars. The same service could not be had now for less than four times the price."

garding war as its natural occupation. The officers of the army and navy do not desire war. America is the only great country in which the fighting services are exempt from all that is expressed in the single word, 'militarism.'

"We are the greatest nation on earth today because the majority of our people habitually think clearly and act correctly on questions affecting the public welfare. We have ever been the champions of right and justice among the other nations of the world, and we never waged an unprovoked or unjust war against any other country. Nevertheless during our comparative brief history we have in spite of our natural love of peace been forced to engage in six great wars, on the average of one for every 25 years of our national existence, or one war to each generation.

"No right thinking man wants war any more than he wants public execution but both are some times necessary to protect the rights of law abiding people. Our government guarantees its citizens, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. When these rights are threatened by a foreign power, it is the solemn duty of the government to protect them, even to the extent of declaring war on the aggressor if necessary.

"I am glad that when the Hun attempted to establish a Pan Germanic empire the world united to resist the attempt. The World war was worth all it cost. Awful as was the tragedy of the war, the tragedy of world submission would have been greater.

"There are those who say 'let's muster out the army and navy and abolish war by arbitration? Why not discharge all our police forces and abolish crime by persuasion? Both proposals are equally devoid of logic or common sense.

"No man who ever served in battle wants to see war again. He knows what it is in all its brutal horror. He is the real honest pacifist. He will make every honorable sacrifice to maintain peace

"It cannot be denied that the United States entered the World war in a bad state of unpreparedness. When war was declared April 7, 1917, this government had a mere handful of trained soldiers True we raised a large army almost over night. But what kind of an army was it? Marshal Hindenberg, now president of Germany, answered that question when he said he did not think so much of the American Army. Why? It lacked training. And because it lacked training it lacked effeciency. That is, it was not able to win a given objective with a minimum loss of life. American troops were brave as lions and generally got what they went after, but they paid very dearly for their victories. This in substance is what Hindenberg had to say of American troops in the World war.

"Speaking of their fighting on the Meuse and their casualties there, he said, 'The experience of these masses will have taught the United States for the future that this business of war cannot be learned in a few months."

Here Mr. Lynch gave an impressive description of the Meuse-Argone and Champagne battles in which he took part, during the World war. Continuing, he said:

"Lack of experience cost streams of blood, the blood of America's best and bravest young men who have ever responded to the call to arms in defense of their country and heroically offered their lives, if necessary, for the preservation of its ideals and its institutions.

"Hindenberg brings home to us very forcibly the necessity of an adiquate national defense. The young men of the coming generation will respond as have those of past generations responded if the call ever reaches them, which God forbid, but if it ever does come are we going to ask them to face the call as did those who answered the call in 1917?

"Today our national defense is in better condition than ever before. But much is yet to be done. We do not want to burden the people with an army that would tax the countries resources to maintain. But we do want sufficient military training that would give us enough men trained in the rudiments of war to form a nucleus of a well trained army.

"To do this the War Department has established four branches of training. The regular army for intensive training, the National Guard for elementary training, the Organized Officers Reserve from whence to draw men trained to command, and the Citizens Military Training Camps for the instruction of young men in the fundamental principals of military tactics with the end in view of creating an Officers Reserve. It is for this last mentioned service I am to make my request.

"These camps are held for 30 days each year and provide military training for young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years. It brings together young men of all types and from different sections of the country for the development of closer national and social unity, to teach them the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizens; and to develop them physically, mentally, and morally along the lines calculated to increase their individual effeciency and our national strength both civil and military.

"The complete course of Citizens Military Training Camps contemplates attendance at four annual camps, but the system of training is voluntary. You may attend the first year without obligating yourself in any way to take any further training. But if a young man completes the course and has demonstrated his ability to command he receives a second lieutenancy in the organized officers reserve of the army."

Arthur A. Hoopingarner of The Circleville Herald and Union-Herald preceded Mr. Lynch with a brief review of the newspaper situation.

Custom Too Strong

Cromwell, and those associated with him, endeavored to prohibit the use of wedding rings of any sort —even those of iron—but the "heathenish practice" could not be put down.

It's the money youspend wisely that counts

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable to help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you spend for this. Spend all of it, but dont spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from the advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read the advertising. A little more value here . . . a little better workmanship there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

It certainly pays to read the advertisements

SHARKEY-DELANEY MEETING MAY UPSET RICKARD PLANS

Davis Walsh Looks For Sailor to Knock Delaney Out Monday Night.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 25—It wouldn't surprise some of the more intelligent of our intellectuals if Jack Sharkey hits Jack Delaney on the turnip next Monday night and knocks him for a row of two-family houses. If he does, Tex Rickard may discover that he has overdrawn his hand to the extent that he then will hold one more ace than Hoyle and etiquette consider strictly advisable.

For if Sharkey wins by the decisive medium of a knockout, Rickard will be in the questionable position of having gone out of his way to develop a better attraction than the man he already has voted into role of heavyweight challenger, Mr. Tomato Heeney, and in this case, the Tunney-Heeney fight very well might draw a lot of house flies. The more one considers the situation, the more one is convinced that Rickard forgot to duck when he let himself in for this Sharkey-Delaney business on Monday night. He already has one more challenger than he can conveniently use, to wit, Mr. John Risko, the prominent bagholder.

A knockout always is the great convincer with the patients in the outer office. The betting is almost even that they will get one before the end of fifteen rounds of the Sharkey-Delaney heat. On the other hand, there wasn't even a knockdown to show for fifty-two rounds between Heeney and Risko, Heeney and Sharkey, Heeney and Delaney and Sharkey and Risko and that is one of the reasons the boys are prone to view our challenger with a certain degree of alarm. He figured all too conspicuously in those hit and run proceedings. So, you might say, has Sharkey.

But my watch expects to catch the last man forgetting this fact in ten seconds flat, provided Sharkey knocks Delaney into the balcony boxes, which, as a matter of fact, he should. Delaney doesn't belong in the same ring with any good heavyweight who is really in earnest and everybody knows it, including Delaney himself. He was ready for the swimming pool the night a vigilant referee stepped forward and saved him from Paulino.

Of course, I am borrowing a lot of surmises against the immediate future. Sharkey and Delaney may give us another exhibition of how they circle the May-pole on the Bryn Mawr campus. But, somehow, I look for a more satisfactory performance.

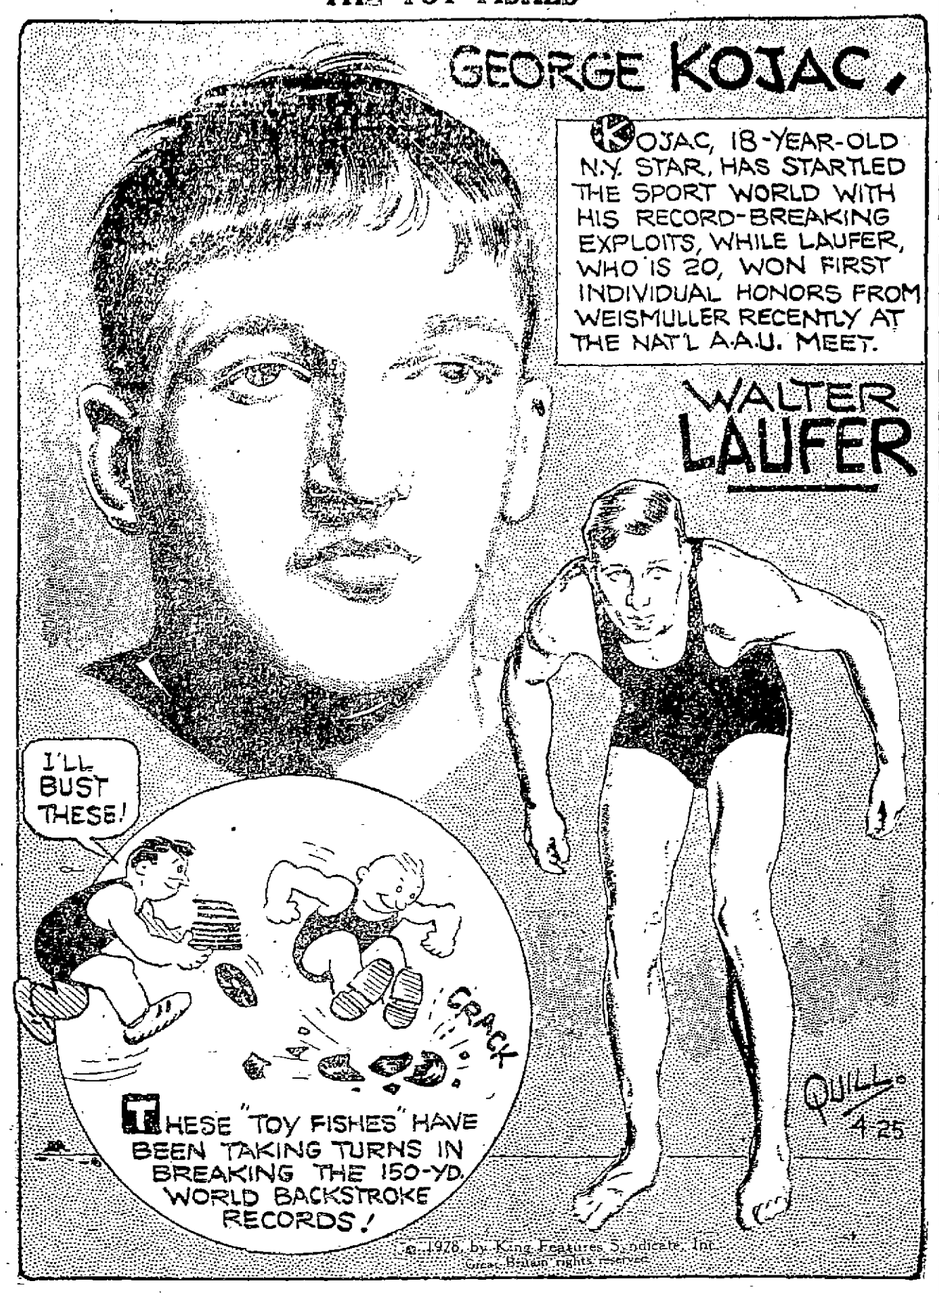
THE 'TOY FISHES'



SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney are Tex Rickard's step-children. They are the ugly ducklings of the heavyweight division.

The two Jacks are training for their bout Monday night which will determine which is the worse of the two.

The affair marks the resumption of the indoor boxing season which was interrupted by the arrival of "Goliath, the Sea Elephant" and his fellows of the circus.

This pair of Jacks is not much to open on, but Rickard figures each fighter will attract a lot of customers—who want to see him licked.

Sharkey and Delaney were easily at the bottom of the class when the elimination business was over. The Bridgeport boxer had been beaten by Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko. The Bostonian had lost to Risko and had fought a poor draw with Heeney.

The former light heavyweight champion was a three-to-one favorite over Heeney for their elimination bout in Madison Square Garden last winter. Delaney figured to outbox the slow-thinking, plodding New Zealander and to cut Tom down with that once deadly right hand upper-cut. Instead, stout-hearted Tom crowded weak-kneed Jack from the opening bell to the closing, and Delaney never once let go the right hand counted upon to finish the fight.

Sharkey certainly should have warranted the odds of 3 to 1 wagered on him to defeat roly-poly Johnny Risko, but the Bostonian fought one of his worst fights (and they can be bad!) and the puffing Cleveland heavyweight took the play away from him and the judges' verdict as well.

There will be nothing at stake next Monday night except the possible chance of a bout with Gene Tunney in 1929. There will be no one for Monday nights' winner to fight this year. Paolino has outfought Delaney once, and Sharkey is reported to want no part of the Basque. Risko has beaten both of them. Tommy Loughran scratched Delaney off the eligible list in the 175-pound division when Jack signed for the Sharkey go.

"If he's a light heavyweight, let him fight light heavyweights," said Tommy sagely. "I wanted to fight Delaney and presumably he wanted to fight me. The bout would have drawn well outdoors. Now he goes and signs with Sharkey and he won't be good for anything when that big Lithuanian gets through with him."

Opinion seems generally to go along with Loughran in this matter. Delaney is an in-and-outer, it is admitted, but he hasn't been any more disappointing than Sharkey. On their records, the affair is viewed as a "standoff." But the feeling is expressed something like this:

"Sharkey is a bad big man and Delaney a bad little man. And a bad big man can beat a bad little man any day."

The Boston heavyweight has taken his recent set-backs with an air of resignation.

"Well, that's three bad ones in a row," he remarked, after the Risko fiasco.

Delaney, or his handlers, rather favor the well-known alibi. There usually is some perfectly plausible excuse for each of the Bridgeport boxer's defeats.

The fight fans of New York and vicinity are rather discouraged about both boxers, however, and the loser will need no alibi this time. It will be quite what a number of the spectators expected.

If baseball pitchers were as skillful at boomerang delivery as politicians are, they would be invincible.—Cincinnati (O.) Times-Star.

STEAMER ADRIFT IN GULF STREAM

NORFOLK, VA., April 25 — Adrift in the gulf stream unable to help herself and followed by the Coast Guard Cutter Carrabassett, helpless to render assistance was the strange plight today of the American steamer Western Ocean.

The steamer was picked up 300 miles east of the Virginia capes by the Carrabassett and towed for about 100 miles. During a severe gale Monday the tow line parted and the Western Ocean was driven into the gulf stream where she is now drifting in an easterly direction at a speed of about 5 knots.

The Carrabassett because of high seas and strong westerly winds has been unable to recover the ship.

Promoter Mullen Gets Clean Slate From Illinois Boxing Bosses.

CHICAGO, April 25 —With the last obstacle out of his way, Promoter Jim Mullen went forward today with plans for his Mickey Walker-Ace Hudkins middleweight championship fight here June 21.

Mullen was given clear sailing yesterday when the bout was sanctioned by the Illinois Athletic commission. The fight will be staged at Soldier's field over the ten round route at the middleweight limit, 160 pounds.

Walker, the title-holder, must post a forfeit of $18,750, and Hudkins, the Nebraska challenger, must put up $6,250, the commission ruled.

Home Rule For Scotland Asked Under Measure In House of Commons

LONDON, April 25 — Rev. James Barr, Labor Member of Parliament for Motherwell, Glasgow, has just introduced a Bill for "Home Rule for Scotland" into the House of Commons.

It asks for the establishment of a single chamber of Parliament, dealing with Scottish affairs, which shall have sovereign powers for the peace, order and good government of Scotland.

It recommends an executive committee to advise Scottish members of the House of Commons.

It asks for all National Services and Departments—apart from the Army, Navy, Air Force and the Foreign Office—to be placed under the sole control of the Scottish Parliament.

A supreme court of Scotland, it is suggested should replace the House of Lords as a final Court of Appeal.
